GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE TO LEGISLATORS

Special Session of the Legislature, January 28, 1943

Members of the Senate and the Assembly

I have asked you to meet today in extraordinary session for the purpose of enacting a basic law which will enable the State to perfect a civilian defense adequate to meet the dangerous conditions which have confronted us since the dastardly attack on Pearl Harbor and concerning which we have, as a State, done little or nothing up to the present time.

The fact that God has restrained the hands of our enemies, and has kept their airplanes and their bombs away from our shores for almost 14 months should be a matter of eternal gratitude as well as comfort to every Californian. But we must remember that to insure our safety against the Jap we must, in addition to the interposition of the Almighty, exercise our ingenuity, use our resources, and tax our strength to protect ourselves every minute of every day until the Swastika of Nazi Germany becomes nothing but a hideous recollection of the past and until the last Jap ship has been sunk.

There is a real danger that we Americans may relax our vigilance to some extent before that day arrives. The favorable war news from various parts of the world has already caused some people to relax their efforts in the belief that the war will soon be over and that the period of danger has passed. No more dangerous state of mind could be indulged in, because it is in such times that disaster strikes. It was such a state of mind that made possible the disaster at Pearl Harbor.

I know it is not necessary for me to argue with you the present danger of California in the war. This Legislature has always been willing to do its duty toward a civilian defense when it was apprised of the facts and of the intentions of those who were to administer the program. In the days when the present Council of Defense was established by you we were not at war. The plan of organization adopted was that suggested by the Council of Federal and State Government as a uniform measure for all the States. It represented the consensus of opinion in the Country at that time. Since then, and until now, the Legislature has not been permitted to meet, and we find ourselves still operating under a prewar program without regard to war necessities.

The existing State Council of Defense is wholly unworkable. It is unwieldy in that it has 30 members scattered from the Oregon line to the Mexican border. It is entirely advisory in character, and the members are busy civilians who only make trips to the infrequent meetings with great difficulty. They rarely have a problem of importance submitted to them for consideration, and the meetings consist largely of routine reports from a staff that the members of the Council have had no part in recruiting or supervising. During the entire year of 1942, there were only five such meetings of the State Council of Defense. This is simply toying with the problem, and I am sure you will agree with me when I say that we must quit playing and take hold of the situation as the serious business it is.

I, therefore, recommend to you that the cumbersome State Council of Defense be abolished, and that there be substituted in its place a small War Council headed by the Governor and composed of those who are charged with the responsibility of civilian defense on the State, county and local levels. It should not be designed to set up a new system of local defense throughout the State, but should integrate and energize existing programs, and, through certain powers given to the Governor in times of extreme emergency, be able to administer civilian defense through the local organization on a regional, or if necessary, a State-wide basis during periods of disaster. The plan contemplates that at all other times the planning and administration of local defense is under the jurisdiction of the local defense councils, where it should be.

This entire program will be found in a War Powers Act, which I am informed will be introduced in the Legislature today. This bill was not prepared by me, but by representatives of city and county government who, perhaps, realize better than anyone what the necessities of the situation are. I have collaborated with them, and it is my considered opinion that it is the best bill that can be devised at this time under the conditions prevailing in California, and hearing in mind our constitutional and charter provisions. It does not give to the Governor the broad emergency powers recommended by the Council of State Governments and other advisory groups. It merely gives to the Governor the power to do in times of disaster those things that the local and regional councils have previously planned. It affords a maximum amount of local autonomy at all times, and is entirely consistent with the existing councils and mutual aid programs.

I commend this bill to you in the belief that it represents the best thought in the State on the subject, and, if enacted, will permit cities, counties, and the State to work in cooperation and harmony with each other for the effective protection of our people.

I also recommend for your favorable consideration an appropriation for civilian defense purposes during the remainder of the biennium.

Such an appropriation should be made to serve the needs of the State Council of Defense until superseded, and of the War Council until July 1st, if created by this Legislature. A bill to accomplish that purpose has also been prepared for immediate introduction.

These are the only two bills that have been prepared for your consideration at this special session, but there are some others that have or will be introduced at your regular session, and which, in my opinion, are necessary if we are to fully meet our responsibilities in the war emergency.

One of the most important will be a bill to permit the reorganization of the State Guard. As you know, I have appointed as Adjutant General one of your former associates, in the person of Ray Hays. He was, for many years, a member of the National Guard and, for upwards of two years, a Colonel in the Army during this war. He knows the purposes and requirements of a State Guard as only few men do. He is now making a survey of the entire organization and will, I am sure, propose for your consideration in due course an organization and a plan of operation that will meet with your approval. This much I can say to you concerning the plan. It will provide for an active, mobile, and intensively trained corps which can at all times be available for duty throughout the State and also units of a Home Guard or Militia which will be recruited, trained, and retained at all times for use in the community in which they are organized. In this manner, the public may receive the benefit of the services of all those loyal citizens who are willing to serve in the military forces of the State, either as a vocation or an avocation.

Civilian defense is not only a local problem. It is a joint responsibility of Federal, State and local government, and each must play its part and shoulder its responsibility. It is often difficult to segregate these responsibilities or to draw a line of demarcation between them. There is of necessity some overlapping, and I am convinced that in some instances we have asked some communities to perform more than municipal functions. It is my opinion that the State should in such circumstances provide financial assistance for these communities. I, therefore, suggest that you give consideration to an appropriation for that purpose and to the establishment of a commission which will administer the fund under proper safeguards on the basis of equity.

I also believe that in urging our citizens to volunteer for the many protective services, we are asking them not only to subject themselves to unusual personal danger in times of disaster, but we are also asking them to assume the financial responsibility for any injuries they might incur in the line of this public service. This is asking too much. Any man or woman who volunteers to protect life and property in times of air raid and other war emergencies is entitled to know that, if he is injured, the public which he is serving will give him the compensation that this State has for many years insisted upon for all workmen.

This, it seems to me, is properly a Federal obligation, and bills are pending in Congress for that purpose. But no action has been taken, and, until it is taken, the State of California should take care of its own. I, therefore, suggest that you favorably consider the bills that are pending for that purpose.

I have heretofore recommended the passage of a bill which will provide for the establishment of child care centers wherein the children of war industry mothers can be cared for during the working hours of the mother. This is considered essential for the expanded programs of war industry, and I trust you will pass such a bill before the constitutional recess. It is particularly necessary at this time, because the Federal agency which has been maintaining them heretofore is being dissolved.

You also have before you a Birth Registration Bill which will simplify the procedure for establishing births. This, too, is immediately necessary in order that many persons who, under our present laws can not legally establish their births, may be able to do so and thus become eligible for war industry employment. I trust that it also will receive final passage before the recess.

One of the principal weapons of this war is food, and, given the opportunity, the farmers of California can and will produce more of it for war purposes than any other State of the Union. But our situation is apparently not understood, and the California farmer is hamstrung and harassed in his efforts until he hardly knows at times whether he is to be permitted to continue operations. There is no State agency at the present time that can both find the facts, determine the need, and then make the fight for California agriculture. I, therefore, suggest as a war measure that you create a Farm Commission which will be able to explore all the factors of production and distribution of our farm products—one that will be empowered to make the ease of California agriculture, whether it be in Imperial Valley, at Sacramento, or in Washington.

In the rush of business, we must remember that already scores of our California boys are coming home in casts, without limbs, and otherwise invalidated. This number will be accelerated sharply as time goes on, and some day all of our boys will be coming home to us. They will want homes and farms, and will need the educational training that they were deprived of because of their war service. The State owes an obligation to all of these loyal Californians. California fulfilled its obligation in this regard to the veterans of the last World War, and we must do the same for our present heroes. The time to do that is NOW. I, therefore, propose a bond issue for the purchase of farms and homes and for the training of California veterans of this war as proposed by the American Legion.

There are many other bills that bear directly or indirectly upon the war which I will not now take your time to discuss. There may be new problems develop before your final adjournment. But I am sure that this Legislature, in the fine spirit which it has so far manifested, will in every respect, protect the interests of the people of California in this greatest of all crises.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE TO LEGISLATORS

Special Session of the Legislature, January 28, 1943

Members of the Senate and the Assembly

I have asked you to meet today in extraordinary session for the purpose of enacting a basic law which will enable the State to perfect a civilian defense adequate to meet the dangerous conditions which have confronted us since the dastardly attack on Pearl Harbor and concerning which we have, as a State, done little or nothing up to the present time.

The fact that God has restrained the hands of our enemies, and has kept their airplanes and their bombs away from our shores for almost 14 months should be a matter of eternal gratitude as well as comfort to every Californian. But we must remember that to insure our safety against the Jap we must, in addition to the interposition of the Almighty, exercise our ingenuity, use our resources, and tax our strength to protect ourselves every minute of every day until the Swastika of Nazi Germany becomes nothing but a hideous recollection of the past and until the last Jap ship has been sunk.

There is a real danger that we Americans may relax our vigilance to some extent before that day arrives. The favorable war news from various parts of the world has already caused some people to relax their efforts in the belief that the war will soon be over and that the period of danger has passed. No more dangerous state of mind could be indulged in, because it is in such times that disaster strikes. It was such a state of mind that made possible the disaster at Pearl Harbor.

I know it is not necessary for me to argue with you the present danger of California in the war. This Legislature has always been willing to do its duty toward a civilian defense when it was apprised of the facts and of the intentions of those who were to administer the program. In the days when the present Council of Defense was established by you we were not at war. The plan of organization adopted was that suggested by the Council of Federal and State Governments as a uniform measure for all the States. It represented the consensus of opinion in the Country at that time. Since then, and until now, the Legislature has not been permitted to meet, and we find ourselves still operating under a prewar program without regard to war necessities.

The existing State Council of Defense is wholly unworkable. It is unwieldy in that it has 30 members scattered from the Oregon line to the Mexican border. It is entirely advisory in character, and the members are busy civilians who only make trips to the infrequent meetings with great difficulty. They rarely have a problem of importance submitted to them for consideration, and the meetings consist largely of routine reports from a staff that the members of the Council have had no part in recruiting or supervising. During the entire year of 1942, there were only five such meetings of the State Council of Defense. This is simply toying with the problem, and I am sure you will agree with me when I say that we must quit playing and take hold of the situation as the serious business it is.

I, therefore, recommend to you that the cumbersome State Council of Defense be abolished, and that there be substituted in its place a small War Council headed by the Governor and composed of those who are charged with the responsibility of civilian defense on the State, county and local levels. It should not be designed to set up a new system of local defense throughout the State, but should integrate and energize existing programs, and, through certain powers given to the Governor in times of extreme emergency, be able to administer civilian defense through the local organization on a regional, or if necessary, a State-wide basis during periods of disaster. The plan contemplates that at all other times the planning and administration of local defense is under the jurisdiction of the local defense councils, where it should be.

This entire program will be found in a War Powers Act, which I am informed will be introduced in the Legislature today. This bill was not prepared by me, but by representatives of city and county government who, perhaps, realize better than anyone what the necessities of the situation are. I have collaborated with them, and it is my considered opinion that it is the best bill that can be devised at this time under the conditions prevailing in California, and bearing in mind our constitutional and charter provisions. It does not give to the Governor the broad emergency powers recommended by the Council of State Governments and other advisory groups. It merely gives to the Governor the power to do in times of disaster those things that the local and regional councils have previously planned. It affords a maximum amount of local autonomy at all times, and is entirely consistent with the existing councils and mutual aid programs.

I commend this bill to you in the belief that it represents the best thought in the State on the subject, and, if enacted, will permit cities, counties, and the State to work in cooperation and harmony with each other for the effective protection of our people.

I also recommend for your favorable consideration an appropriation for civilian defense purposes during the remainder of the biennium.

Such an appropriation should be made to serve the needs of the State Council of Defense until superseded, and of the War Council until July 1st, if created by this Legislature. A bill to accomplish that purpose has also been prepared for immediate introduction.

These are the only two bills that have been prepared for your consideration at this special session, but there are some others that have or will be introduced at your regular session, and which, in my opinion, are necessary if we are to fully meet our responsibilities in the war emergency.

One of the most important will be a bill to permit the reorganization of the State Guard. As you know, I have appointed as Adjutant General one of your former associates, in the person of Ray Hays. He was, for many years, a member of the National Guard and, for upwards of two years, a Colonel in the Army during this war. He knows the purposes and requirements of a State Guard as only few men do. He is now making a survey of the entire organization and will, I am sure, propose for your consideration in due course an organization and a plan of operation that will meet with your approval. This much I can say to you concerning the plan. It will provide for an active, mobile, and intensively trained corps which can at all times be available for duty throughout the State and also units of a Home Guard or Militia which will be recruited, trained, and retained at all times for use in the community in which they are organized. In this manner, the public may receive the benefit of the services of all those loyal citizens who are willing to serve in the military forces of the State, either as a vocation or an avocation.

Civilian defense is not only a local problem. It is a joint responsibility of Federal, State and local government, and each must play its part and shoulder its responsibility. It is often difficult to segregate these responsibilities or to draw a line of demarcation between them. There is of necessity some overlapping, and I am convinced that in some instances we have asked some communities to perform more than municipal functions. It is my opinion that the State should in such circumstances provide financial assistance for these communities. I, therefore, suggest that you give consideration to an appropriation for that purpose and to the establishment of a commission which will administer the fund under proper safeguards on the basis of equity.

I also believe that in urging our citizens to volunteer for the many protective services, we are asking them not only to subject themselves to unusual personal danger in times of disaster, but we are also asking them to assume the financial responsibility for any injuries they might incur in the line of this public service. This is asking too much. Any man or woman who volunteers to protect life and property in times of air raid and other war emergencies is entitled to know that, if he is injured, the public which he is serving will give him the compensation that this State has for many years insisted upon for all workmen.

This, it seems to me, is properly a Federal obligation, and bills are pending in Congress for that purpose. But no action has been taken, and, until it is taken, the State of California should take care of its own. I, therefore, suggest that you favorably consider the bills that are pending for that purpose.

I have heretofore recommended the passage of a bill which will provide for the establishment of child care centers wherein the children of war industry mothers can be cared for during the working hours of the mother. This is considered essential for the expanded programs of war industry, and I trust you will pass such a bill before the constitutional recess. It is particularly necessary at this time, because the Federal agency which has been maintaining them heretofore is being dissolved.

You also have before you a Birth Registration Bill which will simplify the procedure for establishing births. This, too, is immediately necessary in order that many persons who, under our present laws can not legally establish their births, may be able to do so and thus become eligible for war industry employment. I trust that it also will receive final passage before the recess.

One of the principal weapons of this war is food, and, given the opportunity, the farmers of California can and will produce more of it for war purposes than any other State of the Union. But our situation is apparently not understood, and the California farmer is hamstrung and harassed in his efforts until he hardly knows at times whether he is to be permitted to continue operations. There is no State agency at the present time that can both find the facts, determine the need, and then make the fight for California agriculture. I, therefore, suggest as a war measure that you create a Farm Commission which will be able to explore all the factors of production and distribution of our farm products—one that will be empowered to make the case of California agriculture, whether it be in Imperial Valley, at Sacramento, or in Washington.

In the rush of business, we must remember that already scores of our California boys are coming home in casts, without limbs, and otherwise invalidated. This number will be accelerated sharply as time goes on, and some day all of our boys will be coming home to us. They will want homes and farms, and will need the educational training that they were deprived of because of their war service. The State owes an obligation to all of these loyal Californians. California fulfilled its obligation in this regard to the veterans of the last World War, and we must do the same for our present heroes. The time to do that is NOW. I, therefore, propose a bond issue for the purchase of farms and homes and for the training of California veterans of this war as proposed by the American Legion.

There are many other bills that bear directly or indirectly upon the war which I will not now take your time to discuss. There may be new problems develop before your final adjournment. But I am sure that this Legislature, in the fine spirit which it has so far manifested, will, in every respect, protect the interests of the people of California in this greatest of all crises.

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communications were received, read, and, on motion of Senator Hatfield, ordered printed in the Journal:

OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL
STATE CAPITOL, SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, March 20, 1943

Honorable George J. Hatfield

Senate Chamber, State Capitol, Sacramento, California

ASSEMBLY BILL No. 1 AND SENATE BILL No. 1 (2d Extra Session, 1943)

Votes Necessary for Passage

DEAR SENATOR HATFIELD:

Question

You have asked us how many votes will be required in each house for the passage of the above bills, enacting the California Food and Fiber Production Act.

Both Sections 50 in these bills appear to be identical and do not make any money available for expenditure during the current biennium.

Opinion

It is our opinion that if these bills are passed by the Legislature before other appropriations passed by the Legislature for expenditure during the next biennium exceed by more than five per cent (5%) the appropriation base for the current biennium, the bill will require 41 votes for passage in the Assembly and 21 votes for passage in the Senate.

As a practical matter, if these bills in their present form are passed before the Budget Bill is passed, they will require but 41 votes in the Assembly and 21 votes in the Senate.

Analysis

Our opinion is based upon the language of Section 34a of Article IV of the State Constitution. With omissions of inapplicable language, that section reads in part as follows:

"Appropriations from the general fund of the State for any biennium * * * shall not exceed * * * the appropriations from such fund * * * for the preceding biennium unless two-thirds of all the members elected to each house of the Legislature vote in favor thereof * * *"

The language of the section respecting the reduction of appropriations in the bills passed without the two-thirds vote where that vote is necessary indicates that it is the order in which the bills are passed by the Legislature and not the time that they become effective that controls.

A bill is passed at the time it is signed by the Governor. People vs. Clark (1851), 1 Cal. 406.

Very truly yours,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel
By SIDNEY L. WEINSTOCK, Deputy

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
GOVERNOR'S OFFICE, SACRAMENTO, March 24, 1943

Honorable George J. Hatfield, Member of the Senate
State Capitol, Sacramento, California

DEAR SENATOR: I am advised that there exists among the Members of the Legislature some question as to the exact suggestions I have made in regard to Assembly Bill No. 1, an act which the Legislature was convened in special session March 20 to consider. For the purpose of clarifying any misunderstanding in regard to my position, I am presenting my views in letter form.

It appears that there is agreement among the Legislators regarding all sections of the bill with the exception of that section which includes in the membership of the Council the Director of Industrial Relations.

Inasmuch as the suggestion for the provision was mine, perhaps I should indicate its purpose so that all the members will be in a better position to judge of its desirability and hasten final passage of the bill with or without its inclusion.

My suggestion was made to the authors of the bill prior to the convening of the special session. It was offered as an amendment in the Senate after passage of the bill by the Assembly. I have solicited no votes for it. I have made no maneuver to secure its adoption. Nor will I do either.

My suggestion was made in the belief that it would further the purposes of the bill in which I am sincerely interested, and in the development of which I spent many hours with farm groups and their sponsoring Legislators. I believe that unless some action akin to that provided in this bill is taken—and immediately—that fertile land will lie idle, crops will not be harvested, farmers will lose not only their investments but also the results of their labor, there will be a shortage of food and people may go hungry. It may not be the people of California alone. It may be worse. It may be our boys—who are fighting the battle of freedom in other parts of the world.

This act is designed to supplement the activities of the Federal Government in its efforts to produce sufficient food for our Allies and ourselves. It is something new. It launches us into activities never before engaged in. We are to recruit men, women, and children for farm labor. We are to transport them to their places of employment. We are to provide for their housing where none may now be in existence. We are undertaking to feed them where facilities are not otherwise available. In doing these things, we of necessity determine the social conditions under which they are to live as well as the conditions of their labor. Health, safety, and even morals are involved in everything we do. It is expected that young boys and girls will be permitted by their parents to be away from home for the first time in their lives to participate in this patriotic effort. Wives and mothers will come from sheltered homes to help harvest crops that may eventually reach their husbands and sons. Elderly people will give of their waning strength for the cause. Thousands of our neighbors, unfamiliar with our language or our customs are expected from Mexico. All of these people must be transported, housed, fed, and supervised in a manner that will measure up to the social standards of this great State.

It must also be remembered that many of these people have never worked before, and that their health, safety and general welfare while away from home will become our special care.

There is but one department of our State Government that encompasses most of these responsibilities. The Director of Industrial Relations is responsible for the inspection and supervision of housing in such programs. He must see to it that safety factors are maintained in order to protect life and limb. He is charged with the protection of women under the maximum hours, minimum wages and working conditions statutes, and he is the only State officer, subject to the approval of the Governor, who can permit under your recently enacted statute longer hours for women, and must prescribe the conditions under which they can be worked. He must protect our children in any employment they are permitted to engage in under our Child Labor Statutes. It is my belief that in view of these responsibilities he should be an integral part of any program such as that contemplated by the act under consideration. Particularly is this true it seems to me when the bill provides that the other seven members of the Council are to be laymen whose minds can not be expected to be charged with such responsibilities or even have detailed knowledge of them. I might also add that I hope to have some practical farmer as director under the act as well as seven outstanding farmers on the Council.

This act is an emergency act. It invokes powers heretofore not used. In all probability it would not be given serious consideration in normal times. It must, therefore, have the confidence of all the people of California if it is to be effective. Unless the people respond to the call to the farms, it will be of no use.

It was because of my belief that the people of California would be interested in the safeguarding of health, safety and general welfare in such a program that I suggested for membership on the Council one whose oath of office requires him to give constant attention to such matters. It was because I believed that the Legislature would desire to safeguard such governmental responsibilities in the creation of any new agency with such broad, and as yet unproved powers, that I ventured the suggestion. In fact I did not anticipate that it would provoke either controversy or delay in enacting the bill.

I realize that it is wholly the province of the Legislature to determine the provisions of the bill, and I would not if I could substitute my judgment for that of the Legislature. But precious time is running—time that can never be reclaimed for the planting, cultivating and harvesting of crops necessary to win the war.

All of us who have shared in the development of this program must assume a measure of responsibility not only for the enactment of the law but also for its wholesome administration and it is with this thought in mind that I am herewith adding my views to the general discussion.

Sincerely,

EARL WARREN, Governor

Explanation of Vote on Assembly Bill No. 1

In order to give certain elements of the farm group an opportunity to carry out their promises of increased production if given the chance through this bill, I voted for it.

However, I have grave misgivings of its accomplishing anything. It is a duplication of Federal and State agencies that are performing the job as well as war conditions will permit. Then, too, it is very doubtful whether the extraordinary session is constitutional in view of the fact that the Legislature is in regular session.

GEORGE D. COLLINS, Jr.

EXPLANATION

In response to my question: "Isn't it the intent of the Legislature that the Governor appoint to the membership on the California Farm Production Council those members whose major interest is in the production of the specified crops or products?" Mr. Hastain, the primary author of the bill, answered that such is the intent, and the Senate, no doubt, will insist upon such qualifications.

Communication

During the consideration of the report of the Committee on Conference concerning Assembly Bill No. 1, the following communication was received, read, and, on request of Mr. Sargent, ordered printed in the Journal:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA

GOVERNOR'S OFFICE, SACRAMENTO, March 24, 1943

*Honorable Willis Sargent, Member of the Assembly
State Capital, Sacramento, California*

DEAR ASSEMBLYMAN: I am advised that there exists among the Members of the Assembly some question as to the exact suggestions I have made in regard to Assembly Bill No. 1, an act which the Legislature was convened in special session March 20th to consider. For the purpose of clarifying any misunderstanding in regard to my position, I am presenting my views in letter form.

It appears that there is agreement among the Legislators regarding all sections of the bill with the exception of that section which includes in the membership of the Council, the Director of Industrial Relations.

Inasmuch as the suggestion for the provision was mine, perhaps I should indicate its purpose so that all the members will be in a better position to judge of its desirability and hasten final passage of the bill with or without its inclusion.

My suggestion was made to the authors of the bill prior to the convening of the special session. It was offered as an amendment in the Senate after passage of the bill by the Assembly. I have solicited no votes for it. I have made no maneuver to secure its adoption. Nor will I do either.

My suggestion was made in the belief that it would further the purposes of the bill in which I am sincerely interested, and in the development of which I spent many hours with farm groups and their sponsoring Legislators. I believe that unless some action akin to that provided in this bill is taken—and immediately—that fertile land will lie idle, crops will not be harvested, farmers will lose not only their investments but also the results of their labor, there will be a shortage of food and people may go hungry. It may not be the people of California alone. It may be worse. It may be our boys—who are fighting the battle of freedom in other parts of the world.

This act is designed to supplement the activities of the Federal Government in its efforts to produce sufficient food for our Allies and ourselves. It is something new. It launches us into activities never before engaged in. We are to recruit men, women, and children for farm labor. We are to transport them to their places of employment. We are to provide for their housing where none may now be in existence. We are undertaking to feed them where facilities are not otherwise available. In doing these things, we of necessity determine the social conditions under which they are to live as well as the conditions of their labor. Health, safety, and even morals are involved in everything we do. It is expected that young boys and girls will be permitted by their parents to be away from home for the first time in their lives to participate in this patriotic effort. Wives and mothers will come from sheltered homes to help harvest crops that may eventually reach their husbands and sons overseas. Elderly people will give of their waning strength for the cause. Thousands of our neighbors, unfamiliar with our language or our customs, are expected from Mexico. All of these people must be transported, housed, fed, and supervised in a manner that will measure up to the social standards of this great State.

It must also be remembered that many of these people have never worked before, and that their health, safety and general welfare while away from home will become our special care.

There is but one department of our State Government that encompasses most of these responsibilities. The Director of Industrial Relations is responsible for the inspection and supervision of housing in such programs. He must see to it that safety factors are maintained in order to protect life and limb. He is charged with the protection of women under the maximum hours, minimum wages, and working conditions statutes, and he is the only State officer, subject to the approval of the Governor, who can permit, under your recently enacted Statute, longer hours for women, and must prescribe the conditions under which they can be worked. He must protect our children in any employment they are permitted to engage in under our Child Labor Statutes. It is my belief that in view of these responsibilities he should be an integral part of any program such as that contemplated by the act under consideration. Particularly is this true it seems to me when the bill provides that the other seven members of the Council are to be laymen whose minds can not be expected to be charged with such responsibilities or even have detailed knowledge of them. I might also add that I hope to have some practical farmer as director under the act as well as seven outstanding farmers on the Council.

This act is an emergency act. It invokes powers heretofore not used. In all probability it would not be given serious consideration in normal times. It must, therefore, have the confidence of all the people of California if it is to be effective. Unless the people respond to the call to the farms, it will be of no use.

It was because of my belief that the people of California would be interested in the safeguarding of health, safety, and general welfare in such a program that I suggested for membership on the Council one whose oath of office requires him to give constant attention to such matters. It was because I believed that the Legislature would desire to safeguard such governmental responsibilities in the creation of any new agency with such broad, and as yet unproved powers, that I ventured the suggestion. In fact, I did not anticipate that it would provoke either controversy or delay in enacting the bill.

I realize that it is wholly the province of the Legislature to determine the provisions of the bill, and I would not, if I could, substitute my judgment for that of the Legislature. But precious time is running—time that can never be reclaimed for the planting, cultivating, and harvesting of crops necessary to win the war.

All of us who have shared in the development of this program must assume a measure of responsibility not only for the enactment of the law but also for its wholesome administration and it is with this thought in mind that I am herewith adding my views to the general discussion.

Sincerely,

EARL WARREN, Governor
